Alternative Dispute Resolution

What CM's Need to Know

Join us to learn new and different approaches to Alternative Dispute Resolution and choices a construction manager has in advising his or her client regarding dispute avoidance and dispute resolution. We will discuss trends in ADR including the use of Project Neutrals and new developments in the use of mediation and arbitration and what CM's should consider in recommending and implementing dispute resolution strategy to their clients.

You will learn about:

- The latest developments in the mediation and arbitration of construction disputes
- New techniques to avoid disputes and how to resolve them before they fester into litigation
- New construction contract provisions concerning dispute resolution
- What a CM should consider in recommending to clients dispute resolution strategy
- Risk management and dispute prevention on "Green" construction projects

Seminar Instructor:

Kenneth C. Gibbs, Esq., Full-Time Neutral / JAMS, is one of the leading construction neutrals in the United States with an expertise in mediating and arbitrating construction, real estate, insurance, surety, and business disputes involving major commercial projects. He is a Fellow in the American College of Construction Lawyers; an Adjunct Professor at Loyola Law School; and co-author of California Construction Law (now in its 16th Edition). He has been named by the LA Daily Journal as one of the top Neutrals in California.
